OUR PICKS FOR THE SEASON

Ty: Tropical & Greens

I am a tropical guy, through & through and love working with all different varieties of greens/foilage especially vibrant ones. At any time of the year I believe there is nothing better than being transported to any of this worlds beautiful locations filled with vibrant & bold colors that are always aesthetically pleasing to the eye. I have made tropical arrangements and events in each season and at the end of the day, a beautiful picture is a beautiful picture. No one in the years ahead will look at the picture and ask “what month was that?”

Ken: Asymmetrical Styled Designs

Stylized pieces like the “Nancy” are my go to for the season. Having the signature look asymmetry is extremely captivating & alluring to the eye. Choosing monochromatic color palettes that fit the season appropriately to show off the design more than the array of colors. This is perfect for birthday's as, February (although the month with the fewest birthdays in the country) is one of our months of sending the most birthday blooms.

Narcissus Florals Designers: Colorful & Compact

I spoke with our designers! Their consensus for this time of the season is colorful arrangements. They explained how, with the weather always looking so dreary, it's always perfect to receive and design with all different kinds of colorful blooms. Some of the favorites which are arrangements designed by them and uploaded to our website to make and send is Watermelon Sugar, In My Life, Crazy in Love, and many more!

behind the blooms: MEET NICK & ELLA

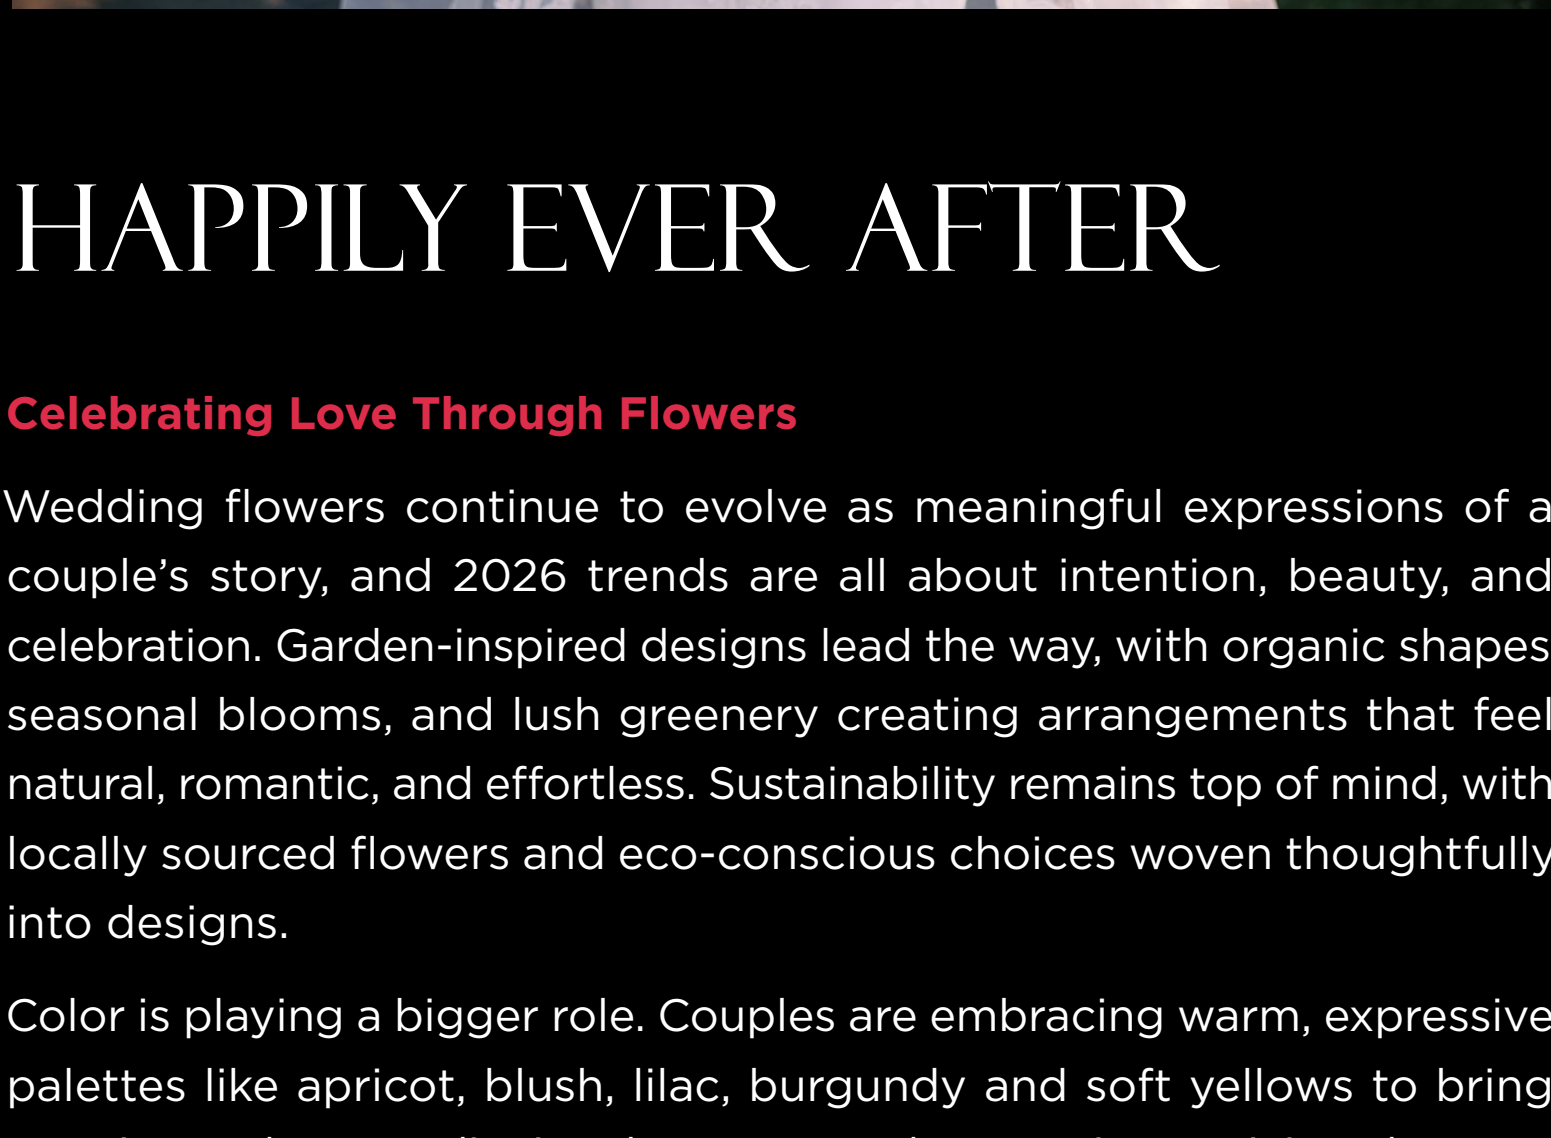

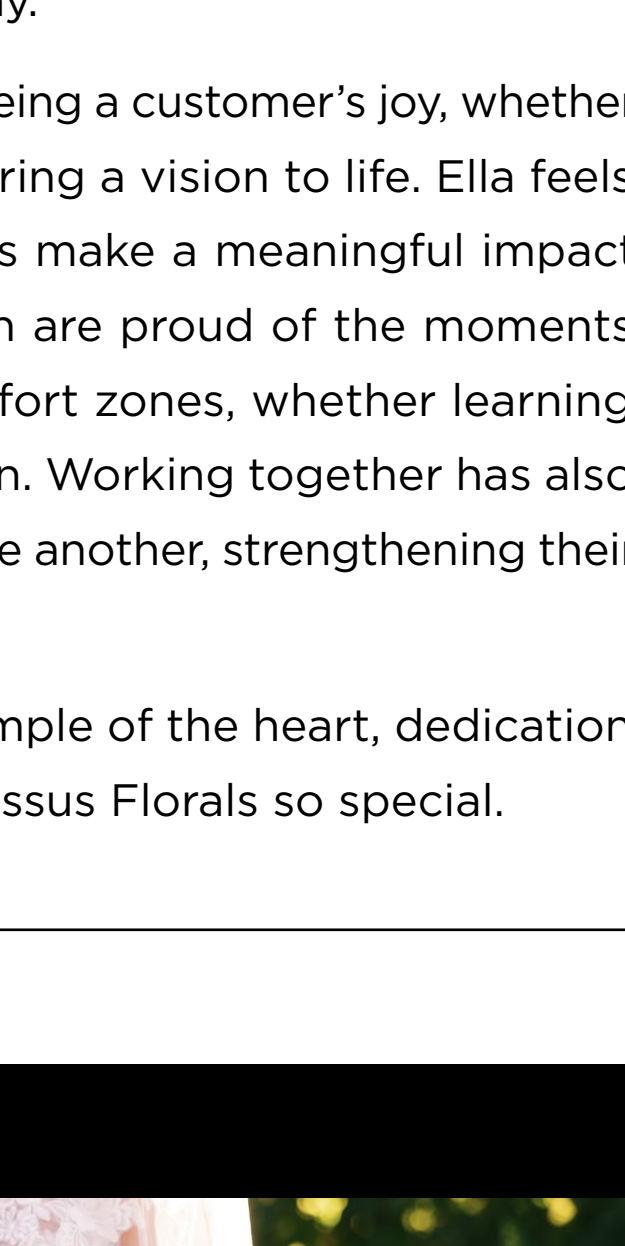

At Narcissus Florals, teamwork comes in many forms, and Nick and Ella embody it beautifully. Coupled and working in different roles, they bring balance, care and collaboration to the shop every day.

Both joined the Narcissus team in July 2023, with Nick coming on first after reaching out to a close friend, and Ella soon following. More than two and a half years later, they've become an integral part of the Narcissus family.

Though they work side by side, their responsibilities differ. Nick supports the process from start to finish, while Ella brings floral visions to life as a designer. Having distinct roles allows them to better understand the full journey of each arrangement and support one another along the way.

Nick finds the greatest reward in seeing a customer's joy, whether it's delivering flowers or helping bring a vision to life. Ella feels most fulfilled knowing her designs make a meaningful impact and brighten someone's day. Both are proud of the moments that push them beyond their comfort zones, whether learning a new skill or tackling a new design. Working together has also deepened their appreciation for one another, strengthening their teamwork and their bond.

Nick and Ella are a wonderful example of the heart, dedication and collaboration that make Narcissus Florals so special.

HAPPILY EVER AFTER

Celebrating Love Through Flowers

Wedding flowers continue to evolve as meaningful expressions of a couple's story, and 2026 trends are all about intention, beauty, and celebration. Garden-inspired designs lead the way, with organic shapes, seasonal blooms, and lush greenery creating arrangements that feel natural, romantic, and effortless. Sustainability remains top of mind, with locally sourced flowers and eco-conscious choices woven thoughtfully into designs.

Color is playing a bigger role. Couples are embracing warm, expressive palettes like apricot, blush, lilac, burgundy and soft yellows to bring emotion and personality into bouquets and centerpieces. Living elements such as potted plants and textured greenery are being incorporated to add depth and longevity, while statement installations, floral arches, aisle accents, and immersive designs transform venues into unforgettable settings.

At Narcissus Florals, we believe wedding flowers should do more than decorate. They should celebrate love, mark a milestone, and create memories that last long after the last dance.
